Changes in the regulations governing the MPhil in Oriental Studies (viii) Islamic Art and Archaeology and (x) Islamic Studies and History: communication from the Oriental Studies Board

Ref: II/21

The following changes in special regulations have been made:

Humanities Divisional Board

MPhil in Oriental Studies (viii) Islamic Art and Archaeology and (x) Islamic Studies and History

Note about nature of the changes:
Change (1) below relates to the MPhil in Oriental Studies (viii) Islamic Art and Archaeology and replaces the Arabic or Persian or Turkish unprepared translation paper with an Arabic or Persian or Turkish language examination.

Changes (2) and (3) below relate to the MPhil in Oriental Studies (x) Islamic Studies and History and replace the Arabic or Persian or Ottoman Turkish unprepared translation paper with an Arabic or Persian or Turkish language examination.

With immediate effect

1 In Examination Regulations, 2010, p. 564, l. 20, delete ‘unprepared translation’ and substitute ‘language examination. †’.

2 Ibid., p. 565, l. 41, delete ‘Ottoman’.

3 Ibid., delete ‘unprepared translation’ and substitute ‘language examination. †’.

Explanatory note:
These amendments represent minor modifications to the syllabus that have become necessary in light of the withdrawal of the use of dictionaries in all examinations in Oriental Studies. The students on course with a vested interest have signed their consent to these changes, and there are no resource implications.
