Teaching Excellence Awards 2015

The Teaching Excellence Awards for 2014–15 were presented by the Vice-Chancellor at a ceremony and reception in Rhodes House on 23 November. In addition to the winners and their guests, the audience included representatives of the divisions and the winners’ departments, and the winners of the OUSU Student-led Teaching Awards (whose awards had been presented by OUSU officers in the summer).

Certificates were presented to recognise outstanding teaching, the development of the curriculum, and the support of teaching. There were also project grants for the development of new courses and teaching material. All four academic divisions and the Department for Continuing Education gave awards; there were also awards to acknowledge the work of library staff, and – for the first time this year – the work of staff in the museums and the Language Centre in teaching and in the support of teaching. Certificates were also presented to winners in IT Services’ OxTALENT scheme for innovation in the use of IT in teaching.
There were 47 awards; with some awards being for small teams, there were a total of 71 award winners. The full list of awards and winners can be seen online at: www.ox.ac.
.uk/gazette/teachingawards.

Question Time

AUDIO RECORDING AVAILABLE

An audio recording of the Question Time session which took place on 23 November is available at www.ox.ac.uk/staff/staff.communications/question-time-michaelmas-2015 (single sign-on is required). The meeting was on the topic of Personnel and Equality, and covered four main areas: i) recruitment of staff; ii) reward and recognition; iii) support for staff; and iv) career progression. Equality and diversity issues were discussed in each of these areas rather than being treated as a separate topic.

This was the first in a series of termly Q&A sessions, open to members of Congregation and current members of University and college staff, which offer the opportunity to hear about some of the major issues facing the University and to raise questions with senior officers. Further information may be found at www.ox.ac.uk/questiontime.

UK Brain Bank for Autism and Related Developmental Research, JR
The developing brain is altered in autism but neuroscientists do not know how or why. Research is needed to understand the causes and biological basis of autism, to develop better interventions to improve the lives of those directly affected by it. Such critical research is hindered by the scarcity of donated human brain tissue. Control tissue, donated by people who do not have autism, is needed for comparison just as much as donations by people who do – and the NHS organ donor scheme does not include brain donation. We particularly want younger people to consider making a pledge to donate their brain after death (the further the brain is from its inception, the more difficult it is to understand the process of its development, so we do not take donations from people over 65 not directly affected by autism). See www.brainbankforautism.org.uk for information and to register as a donor.
