Approved by the Division 13 June 2022

Master of Studies in Greek and/or Latin Languages and Literature

Brief note about nature of change: Minor correction to a cross-reference in the regulations.

Effective date

For students starting the degree in MT 2022; for first examination in TT 2023.

Location of change

In Examination Regulations 2021-22: citation number 1.6

Detail of change

See extracts from online Examination Regulations below.

Amend citation reference 1.6 as follows (new text underlined, deleted text struck through):

A

^{1.5}The texts for each option will appear in the M.St./M.Phil. handbook issued in Week 0 of the Michaelmas Term preceding the examination. Each option will be examined by (a) one paper of translation (1½ hours) and (b) two pre-submitted essays. The texts listed in the handbook are those which should be studied in preparation for the pre-submitted essays. Passages will be set for translation only from those texts in section (α); the edition will be that listed in the handbook.

^{1.6}For any option approved under ~~A11~~A12 the edition will be specified by the Graduate Studies Committee in Classical Languages and Literature.

Explanatory Notes

Minor correction to a cross-reference to option A12 following the introduction of the new A11 option Latin Literature from Titus to Trajan.
